Meeting the social care needs of deaf children and young people
Wednesday, 2nd October 2019

Time:  10 am - 4 pm           Venue:  SSC Edinburgh

Content: Are you working to ensure deaf children get the support they need?

Deaf children and young people may face a range of challenges and risks that make them particularly vulnerable. Our one-day interactive workshop will help you understand the issues and relevant legislation and give you the tools to improve your support and practice. Through a mix of group work, presentations and case studies you'll learn approaches that address the needs of deaf children and their families. You'll have opportunity to use the National Deaf Children's Society (NDCS) assessment framework and know how to ensure effective communication – helping you to promote positive outcomes for the deaf children and young people you work with.

Target audience: Teachers of the deaf, speech and language therapists, educational psychologists, social workers, support staff, and anyone who supports children and young people with a sensory impairment.

Presenter: Christopher Mullen, Social Care Policy Adviser, NDCS

Course fee: £110

NOTE - closing date for course is 11th September 2019
Please feel free to circulate this flyer
